WASHINGTON CITY

Congressional

WASHINGTON March 5—The act in relation to telegraphic communication between the United States and foreign countries, although presented to the President in time, failed to receive his approval for reciprocity of laying cables in foreign waters It is certain he had the bill but with held his signature

It is not certain that the Senate will concur in the House resolution to adjourn sine die on Wednesday Some Senators are disposed to remain in session until the San Domingo Commissioners report

WASHINGTON, March 6—The probable length of the present session of Congress is the common topic of conversation Members of the House and Senate who have canvassed the latter body are fully confident that the resolution passed by the House on Saturday fixing the time of adjournment for Wednesday next, will probably be very close Those in favor of a short session, will try and have the matter settled Tuesday, since, if no arrangement is made this week, so many bills will be introduced that it will be a month or two before an adjournment can be obtained

NEW YORK, March 6—A Washington special telegraphs that the resolution which passed the House on Saturday for the final adjournment on Wednesday, will probably be stopped in the Senate if it is not reconsidered in the House to day and defeated It appears to have been a fight of sections, the New Englanders desiring to adjourn in order to get rid of the proposed new apportionment, which will reduce New England's representation in the House, and Democrats favoring the same idea on general Democratic principles of holding as short a session as possible while there is a Republican majority of Western members anxious to have the apportionment bill passed before the adjournment so as to increase their members in the House.

The Republicans also want the Committee on Southern Outrages to make a report and are anxious to enact some measures before adjournment to punish the Ku Klux, and protect life and property in the South It is stated by those who have access to evidence already taken of outrages committed, that testimony shows a frightful condition of affairs in the South, that secret political organizations, known as Ku Klux, have got the up per hand that in many parts of the South the civil authorities are powerless to enforce laws, that even Democrats are becoming alarmed for their common safety that in a short time, if the present state of affairs are allowed to continue, there will not be a Union man left in the South In addition to the condition of the South it is urged that Congress should remain in session long enough to receive and act upon the report of San Domingo affairs and the conclusions of the Joint High Commission to adjust our differences with England The general impression is that the movement for an early adjournment will not prevail

WASHINGTON, March 6—Among the bills which failed to pass the House during the late session, was one from the Senate refunding between 500 and 600 Southern citizens from legal and political disabilities

The Treasury Department has been advised that $1,151,000 has been subscribed to the new loan

The Joint High Commission.

All members of the joint high commission met socially for the first time on Saturday night at the residence of the British Commissioner

British Consul for Pacific Coast

The President has recognized a consular officer of Her British Majesty W Lane Booker Consul for California, Oregon and Washington territory, to reside at San Francisco.

One of the most bare faced species of Legislative robbery was that of the appropriation of $75,000 over and above the amount necessary for the construction of the Willamet Locks $200 000 was appropriated from the School Fund for this purpose to a Democrat ic corporation, while at the same time the P T Company offers to construct the same locks equally substantial for $125 000 and proposed to give the State any bond it should require This company comprises the wealthiest men in the State The Republicans finding the Democratic majority determined to vote away the school lands resolved to save as much as possible, and therefore while the Democrats reported in favor of $200 000 the Republicans in a minority report favored an amendment authorizing the Governor for

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 8, 1871.

Judge Boise's Opinion on State Warrants.

Judge Boise, in his recent opinion, holds that the Secretary of State is not authorized to issue warrants for claims against the State until the Legislature has first made appropriations therefor, and that warrants so issued are void.

We are not prepared to express an opinion that this position can be successfully controverted; yet it is not impossible to find arguments against it.

Judge Boise rests his opinion mainly upon the statute which provides that "the Secretary of State shall superintend the fiscal concerns of the State, and manage the same in the manner provided by law," and that it shall be his duty "to examine and determine the claims of all persons against the State, in cases where provisions for the payment thereof shall have been made by law, and to endorse upon the same the amount due and allowed thereon, and from what fund the same is to be paid, and draw his warrant upon the Treasurer for the same."

From this it is held that the Secretary has no authority to allow and audit a claim against the State, for the payment of which no provision has been made by law, and therefore that he cannot draw his warrant on the Treasurer for payment of a claim for which money has not been appropriated.

Turning, however, to the statutes which prescribe the duties of the State Treasurer, Codo, page 625, we read that it shall be one of the duties of this officer "to pay all the warrants drawn on him in the order in which they are presented, out of the appropriate fund; if there are no such funds in the Treasury, then he shall endorse on such warrants, 'not paid for want of funds,' together with the date; and all warrants so endorsed shall draw legal interest from and after such endorsement."

If this statute does not imply that the Secretary may draw warrants when there are no funds appropriated to pay them, it would be difficult to explain what it does actually mean. Its language is very specific, while that of the other statute, on which Judge Boise's opinion mainly rests, is; to say the least, quite ambiguous and uncertain on this point, especially when compared with the language of the statute we have cited.

The Constitution and the laws make provision for the salaries of State officers, defining the duties of those officers and fixing the rates of compensation. They also prescribe the methods in which the affairs of the State are to be conducted. The Superintendent of the Penitentiary, for example, is authorized to purchase supplies for the Penitentiary and for prisoners; the law provides that he shall have an annual salary of $—, and the Secretary is directed to issue warrants on the Treasurer for the same. Now if no money has been appropriated by the Legislature to pay these expenses, are the warrants which are issued therefor void? If so, what are we to do with the statute which directs the Treasurer, when there are no funds in the treasury to endorse on such warrants, 'not paid for want of funds?' Where no appropriation has been made there are practically no funds in the treasury; that is, there are no funds that can be reached; but does the existence of the appropriation, giving the provisions of law which we have cited their natural meaning, and full force,—make the warrants valid. We think the proposition, to say the least is doubtful.

The provisions of the Constitution which have a bearing on this general question are these: "The Legislative Assembly shall provide for raising such sum as sufficient to defray the expenses of the state for each fiscal year, and also a sufficient sum to pay the interest on the public debt, if there be any." Section 7 of same Article, says: "No money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in pursuance of appropriation made by law." Section 7 of same Article, says: "Laws making appropriations for salaries of public officers and other current expenses of the State, shall contain provisions on no other subjects?"

Do these provisions touch this particular question? Can any argument be deduced from them to prove that warrants drawn when there is no appropriation are void? It must be remembered that the question is not whether money can be drawn from the treasury without an appropriation; but whether the Secretary has authority to issue warrants when there is no appropriation. In this view of the case we think it may fairly be doubted whether the clauses of the Constitution above cited conclude anything in favor of the position which Judge Boise has taken.

We said at the outset that we were not prepared to express a positive opinion that Judge Boise's position can be controverted; yet we regard it as by no means certain that a full Supreme Bench would come to the same conclusion that he has reached. The subject is a somewhat interesting one, and our object has simply been to show that in our opinion there is room for argument in opposition to the judicial ruling which has been pronounced.

That part of the opinion which relates to the appointment of a Commission, or more properly of a committee, to examine these warrants and report upon the same, appears to us to be founded on good and sound reasons. After reading the opinion we can have little doubt that the Committee is legally constituted; and, indeed, assuming that the Secretary has power to issue warrants in the absence of appropriations, we have no doubt that the Legislature may properly inquire into the circumstances under which the warrants were issued, and if any wrong is found to have been perpetrated, either by intention or mistake, in issuing them, the Legislature would be justified in refusing to make an appropriation for the payment of such of them, or such parts of them, as might be found to be tainted with fraud or issued without adequate consideration. This position, however, might be affected by the fact whether the Secretary has a legal right to issue the warrants "payable to order," or not. If they cannot be lawfully issued "payable to order," then the person to whom they are issued would take them subject to all the equities which might exist between the State and such person.

Democrats are extremely fond of comparing the large amount now raised by taxation to carry on the National Government with the small amount raised for the same purpose before the war. Let us give them a lesson in their own arithmetic. In 1860 when the Republicans controlled New York the aggregate taxation in that State for State purposes was $20,402,274. Democrats have now controlled the State for several years and the aggregate taxation in 1870 was $50,328,684. How will that do?

Frank Blair is "going it" again. A few days ago he delivered in the United States Senate one of his violent and revolutionary speeches, similar in all respects to his utterances just before the last Presidential election. Those utterances contributed powerfully to the defeat of the Democratic party in that campaign, and it was on account of their damaging character that the more sagacious leaders of the party tried to force Blair off the ticket. And now Blair is at it again. In his recent speech in the Senate he said that he did not regard the Fifteenth Amendment as any part of the law of the land; he had never held any other doctrine in regard to it; he did not now, and never had regarded the reconstruction acts as any part of the law of the land, and if he had been in a place of power and called to act upon these so-called laws he should have acted out his conviction, let the consequences be what they might; he never did believe them constitutional.

These utterances are very significant. Taken in connection with the resolutions of almost every recent Democratic State Convention and Legislature, they indicate that the political contest in 1872 is to be made virtually upon the issues of 1868. The Democrats cling tenaciously to their revolutionary programme, and it will be necessary to the peace of the country to beat them in 1872 as in 1868.

An English statesman, Sir Henry Lytton Bulwer, sees "mischief" in an English Parliamentary resolution on the subject of the Franco-Prussian war, for the reason that its adoption by the House of Commons "would irritate Prussia." A most remarkable concession, says the New York Herald, to the power of the new force which has been evolved on the European Continent. But which is the most dangerous—the acknowledgment, or the fact on which it is based?

We maintain that the Constitution of the United States creates a National Government; we assert that that Government has a right to enforce its authority and to compel the submission of any State that denies that authority and assumes to withdraw from the Union. The Roseburg Plaindealer calls these doctrines "the despotic principles of consolidation." Here is another Democratic editor who appears determined to assist in maintaining the connection of his party with the great secession movement.

Under the new system of government instituted in the District of Columbia there will be a Governor and Council, appointed by the President, a House of Delegates, and a delegate in Congress elected by the people. The legislative power is lodged in the Council and House of Delegates, with the veto power in the Governor.

It is said that the opinion continues to gain strength at Washington that the basis on which the Alabama question is to be settled has been already determined between the two governments.

The best editorial yet published on the Joint High Commission is the first sentence of the New York Independent's leader upon the subject,—"This is civilization."

OREGON.

The Roseburg Ensign comes out in favor of a division of the State by the line of the Cascade mountains. A majority of the journals of the State appear to be in favor of the division.

Mr. A. T. Smith, an old citizen of Washington county, who resides near Forest Grove, was kicked by a horse a few days ago and both the bones of his lower right leg broken. The injury is very severe, and the recovery of the old gentleman will be very slow, as he is seventy years of age.

The following persons have been commissioned on the staff of Major-General John F. Miller: C. B. Bellinger, Assistant Adjutant-General, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel; A. Noltner, Hon. A. C. Craig and F. G. Hendricks, Aids de-Camp, with the rank of Major; Dr. Fred Hill, Surgeon, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

A letter from Wilson Creek, Baker county, has this: This extensive mining country never had brighter hopes of a prosperous future than the present. I venture the assertion that we of Eldorado and vicinity, have, hold and possess a vast extent of A No. 1 placer mines, almost equal to the mines of Idaho in her palmiest days.

A correspondent from Tillamook writes that the mail service from Lafayette to that place is performed in a miserably inefficient manner. They have had no mail for four weeks, though the trail over the mountains is good, and parties are crossing every week. Every one sends mail matter to Tillamook should send it via Astoria. On that route the mail is said to be carried regularly.

From the Roseburg Plaindealer: A friend writes us from Josephine that the debt of that county has been reduced to less than $3,000, and that it is the intention to pay it off this year. He also informs us that there is ample range in that county for 100,000 head of stock, and a large importation is expected this season. It seems to us like folly for our stock raisers to go off east of the mountains in search of grass when there is such splendid openings in an adjoining county, and that, too, where their stock is so likely to be killed off by hard winters and snow storms.

From the Roseburg Ensign: We learn from a gentleman who came from Canyonville on the stage, that along the road he counted twenty odd head of dead stock, cattle, sheep and hogs. Some of the cattle have been dissected, and wool was found in their stomachs. Immense herds of sheep have "bred a famine" on the grazing pastures, and farmers and herdsmen having neglected to prepare feed for cattle, the famishing brutes pick the wool from the rose bushes and briars to appease their hunger. Our stock men depend almost entirely on the wild grass for wintering their stock, and when a late fall or cold rains shorten the crop of native grass, numbers of stock perish in the spring.

A correspondent at Gardner, February 28th, writes: Business on the Umpqua river is improving. Seve'a l fami ies have settled amongst us, preparing themselves permanent homes. The little villages, Scottsburg and Gardner, are looking more lively than usual, several new buildings having gone up and others building. Parties are getting out material to build a new wharf and warehouse in Scottsburg. The steam saw-mill at Gardner is cutting from twenty-five to thirty thousand feet of lumber per day. There are two steamboats on the river. The new steamer Enterprise, built for the Roseburg trade, is lying at Scottsburg. The report in the Plaindealer that the Enterprise had ascended the Umpqua as far as Savage's rapids, and run over them without a hitch, is one of its mistakes. Said boat has not been up as far as Savage's; nor has she attempted to go. The Roseburg freight, designed to be shipped on said boat, is now being hauled by the teamsters. This is rather discouraging for those interested in steamboats on the Umpqua, but we have plenty of boats for the business between Gardner and Scottsburg, consequently freights will be low, and parties not interested in boats will be benefitted by having opposition.

THE TERRITORIES.

The contract for the territorial printing in Idaho has been awarded to the Boise Statesman.

A strong effort will be made the coming summer to construct a telegraph line from the Central Pacific railroad to Owyhee and Boise City.

It is said that thousands of people are rushing to the new quartz and placer mines sixty miles south of Salt Lake. The usual annual excitement must prevail.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON CITY.

WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., February, 19, 1871.

OREGON MAIL ROUTES.

Senator Corbett intends soon to introduce a bill establishing the following mail routes: From Kirbyville to Ellensburg; from Slate Creek to Port Orford, by Gallo's Creek; from Grant's Pass by Vannoy's Ferry, on Rogue River, to Slate Creek.

SALARIES OF THE JUDGES.

The Senate has amended, and in substance passed Mr. Corbett's bill with the general appropriation bill, increasing the salaries of the Judges of the United States as follows: Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, $6,500; Associate Justices of the same Court, each $8,000; United States Circuit Judges, $6,000; Chief Justices of the Court of Claims and Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, $6,000; Associate Justices of same Courts, $5,500, and United States District Judges, $5,000.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY WAR CLAIMS.

In a few days Mr. Corbett will introduce a resolution requesting a report on the Hathaway vouchers, which were allowed by the Commissioners, Grover, Ingals and Smith, but never noticed by the Third Auditor in his report to Congress, and, consequently, they have always been disallowed. No reason can be shown why these Washington Territory claims should not be paid, and Mr. Corbett says he will press them during the next Congress. Mr. Smith has a bill now in the hands of the Military Committee of the House, but owing to the press of business and the rules of the House, it will never be reached. It was too late to come up in order.

SOLDIERS OF 1812.

The President has signed the bill granting pensions to certain soldiers and sailors in the war of 1812, and to the widows of deceased soldiers. The law gives every soldier whether sick or well a pension, who served in the war.

ALASKA.

The Secretary of the Treasury has interesting news from Alaska. Schools which have been established among the Alentian people on the Island of St. George, by the Treasury agent, Buyreitzky, are doing good service. Twelve boys and six girls, natives of the Island, after three months instruction, can read distinctly any page of Wilson's primer. They can count a thousand, tell the days of the week, and the number of days in each month, in English, but still there is great room for improvement. They are more industrious than a large majority of the Indians.

INDIAN APPROPRIATIONS FOR OREGON.

The House Indian appropriation bill has been so amended in the Senate as to give Oregon the following amounts:

Salary of the Superintendent of Indian Affairs	$ 2,500
The Indian Agents in Oregon	4,500
Four Sub-Agents in Oregon	4,000
Interpreters in Oregon	3,500
Calapooia, Molalla and Clackamas Indians	3,500
Confederated tribes and bands in middle Oregon	13,000
Klamath and Modoc Indians	17,100
Rogue River Indians	5,000
Umpquas (Cow Creek band)	650
Umpquas and Calapooias of Umpqua valley	2,450
Walla Wallas, Cayuses and Umatilla Indians	19,700
Mixed Shoshones, Bannocks and Sheep-Eaters intended to be located on the new reservation near Fort Hall	25,000
Labor School for the Molallas	2,000
Surveys of Indian Reservations	15,000
For general incidental expenses of Indians in Oregon	40,000
Total	$187,950

This may be changed a little, but we will probably get upwards of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

PUGET SOUND AGRICULTURAL CLAIMS.

One item in the bill making appropriations for diplomatic and consular expenses is to pay Great Britain the second and last installment awarded by the Commissioners under the treaty of July 1st, 1863, in satisfaction of the claims of the Hudson's Bay and Puget Sound Agricultural Companies, amounting to three hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars in gold coin, "Provided, That before payment shall be made of that portion of the above sum awarded to the Puget Sound Agricultural Company all taxes legally assessed upon any of the property of said company covered by said award before the same was made and still unpaid shall be extinguished by said Puget Sound Agricultural Company, or the amount of such taxes shall be withheld by the Government of the United States from the sum hereby appropriated."

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Georgia editor adduces as evidence that the "lost cause" is not yet lost the fact that the Oregon Legislature declares the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States null and void.

Gen. Wm. B. Hazen, who was a Lieutenant in the Oregon Indian War of 1855–6; and who distinguished himself in the battles of Stone river, Chickamauga and the March to the Sea, was married in Cincinnati on Wednesday evening last to a daughter of Washington McClean, Esq., of the Cincinnati Enquirer. Gen. Hazen is 41 and the bride only 20 years of age.

A GRAND CARNIVAL

After the old Roman fashion will commence here to-morrow. The Washington papers have been filled with accounts of it for the past two weeks. A grand triumphal arch was erected during the week across Pennsylvania Avenue from the National Hotel to the St. James. A gust of wind came along that evening and down came the whole structure. It is said they will again erect it. Crowds of workmen gathered and began to tear away the rubbish. It is said they will have it again completed by Tuesday morning.

LATER—INCIDENTS OF THE CARNIVAL.

Most of the maskers were dressed like clowns, but all sorts and styles of personages were represented. Able-bodied men were dressed like women, and you would see them feigning great indignation if a gentleman spoke to them; little women in male attire were parading up and down; bands of minstrels in comic dress; wagon loads of maskers in every conceivable fancy costume; here an ugly clown, arm-in-arm with a stately courtier in velvet and gold lace; there a party of laughing zouaves escorting a man in crinoline and bonnet. Great trees of bouquets were seen moving above the crowd, the men carrying them being quite lost to view. Venders of confetti filled the air with their cries, and all along the street were troops of young dealers almost buried in the piles of bon-bons, paper rockets and other carnival wares they were selling. Although the world seems let loose in the madness of frolic, still nothing discourteous is allowed, and there is no disposition shown by any to take advantage of these licensed times. When a lady throws a gentleman a handful of confetti he turns and raises his cap, as much as to say, "You do me honor." When she throws him a rose or violet, he places it on his breast and fights to retain it the whole week. When she makes him the target of her paper missiles, so much used, consisting of a small ball of lime about the size of a hickory nut, with streamers of bright colored paper, he fastens it in his hat and wears it as a plume. When it is noticed by a crowd of revelers that there is a desire on the part of the recipient to retain a special flower it is snatched at from all sides and almost sure to be destroyed. If a choice bouquet is directed toward the balcony of some fair lady by an admirer, it seldom reaches her, for a rush from all sides is made for it, and it is usually carried off by some enterprising boy; but if the gentleman is really gallant he never gives up his attempt, but calling up one of the moving trees of flowers he goes to work and aims bouquet after bouquet at the lady until she receives one and rewards him by fastening it in the window over her head, as all take pride in displaying their trophies, and some before the day is over have an arch formed of bouquets and wreaths over their heads. Sometimes these disappear very mysteriously by means of a fine wire and hook let down quietly from the window above. Every sort of cunning strategy is resorted to and wild prank is played to occasion surprise and mirth and eclipse one's neighbor, but all with such vivacious good humor that no offense can be taken.

B. F. D.

THE TERRITORIES.

The Boise City Democrat relates the following chapter of misfortunes which have befallen a young lady of that town, Miss Emma Cox, and her family: In 1864 she lived in Boise with her parents, where in November of that year her mother died. In 1865, October 25th, her brother was murdered by the Indians about eight miles the other side of Snake river, while coming this way in a wagon. He was shot dead while seated by his wife, who immediately seized the reins and drove through in safety to the ferry, with the dead body of her husband at her feet. On the same road Miss Emma met with a misfortune which renders her a cripple for life. Several days since her father died, also between here and Owyhee. Father, mother and brother are all buried in the Boise graveyard. It is no wonder that the unfortunate young lady expressed a wish to never travel again on the ill-fated Owyhee road. She is now awaiting the turn of events to go to her brother, living at Salem, Oregon.

CITY.

NEW ENGLAND AND OREGON—Mr O S Phelps, of this city, whose correspondence to various sections of the Eastern States and the World has done much to direct the attention of these people to the inducements for emigrating to Oregon, has placed in our hands an interesting letter from a gentleman of 70 years residing at Colebrook, Connecticut, from which we take the following extracts, for the purpose of showing the contrast between the climates of New England and Oregon

You probably have learned by the papers that we in New England have had an uncommon scarcity of rain for nine or ten months past The month of May was almost without rain here, and had one wet week in June, which helped us very small as to the hay crop, from that time forward weather unusually hot and very little rain till October, then a fair amount of rain for about three weeks, though not enough to reach the springs and wells, since then, a few very slight rains We have had but very little snow this winter—perhaps seven or eight inches in all, not a sleigh We had the greatest snow fall of the season on yesterday (Feb 12th), nearly or quite as much as all we have had before Nearly all the mills throughout New England, depending on water power, have been stopped for several months past, and much inconvenience is experienced on account of scarcity [of water] for mills and household purposes, very many of the springs and wells having been a long time dry"

The letter contains much in regard to the writer's impression of Oregon, some of them existing been obtained, as he says, so long as seven years ago, others, from a recent perusal of a series of articles published in the Weekly Union of New York, from the pen of Samuel Wilkeson, but there have no local interest here further than they attest the fact that the people of New England have lately begun to acquire a deep interest in the North Pacific coast country, to read whatever falls in their way concerning Oregon, and to inquire somewhat about its resources and the chances it may afford for comfortable new homes When we recall all the mills being stopped for months, and throwing thousands of people out of employment, we must conclude that New England is a good place to emigrate from Let them bring their mills and millers to Oregon, and we can assure them water enough, at all events

MR KNIGHT'S LECTURE —Of the lecture delivered last evening by Rev. F. S. Knight of Salem, we need not say very much It did not come up to the general expectation, was not up to Mr K's standard by any means, and did not altogether do him credit or justice. It is true, he had some very good things, but not much that it would do him any credit to have repeated—we mean as the effort of a literary man, student or thinker The one main point pressed was that the Eagle as the national emblem was not fitly chosen, because the characteristics of the emblematic bird are just such as should not distinguish any christian nation In his brief elaboration of his argument, Mr. Knight said a few things quaintly and bluntly as we have often heard him say many good things from the pulpit. It was independent, at least, to go for the eagle-bird a top-knot in the manner he did, when we consider the general unthinking adulation of him bird by the American people He declared that the national emblem ought to be put away as should be every unclean thing, and that a prosperous, enlightened and Christian people ought to have such an emblem as, by their worship of it, would lead them toward purity, innocence, peace, rather than toward cruelty and vileness. He would prefer almost any kind of bird or beast, but particularly the dove, as the very type of the things which it would be best for all nations to attain The subject is one which Mr. Knight could work into a most entertaining pop[ular lecture]

LECTURES ON GEOLOGY —Rev. Thos. Condon, of the Dalles has been tendered two benefits in the city by gentlemen prominently connected with the Northern Pacific Railroad, the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, and numerous citizens of Portland. The first will take place on the evening of Tuesday 14th inst., and the second on Wednesday evening, the 22d inst., on each of which occasions, Mr. Condon will deliver a lecture on The Geology of the Great Basin of the Interior of Oregon" The object of the gentlemen who have tendered these benefits, is to enable Mr Condon to pursue his geological investigations in the region of country indicated, and to thereby acknowledge not only his past services in that reference, but also the high estimation in which he is held as a man and citizen. Those who heard Mr Condon's late very interesting lecture on "The Three Stone Heads," will be pleased at the being afforded an opportunity to hear him further on the subject of Oregon's geology

PASSENGERS FOR PORTLAND.—The N P. T. Co's ship Oriflamme sails from San Francisco to-day with the following passengers

San Holladay and servant, W L Halsey, wife and ... Thomas Johnston, ... M Gilman, G M Hume, W B Ladd J K. Kennedy, G D Shannon, I Higgins J Copeland, B Kohn, F S Aiken, G E Aiken, R H Palmer, W W Warner, J E Baird, E W Harris, J Bhern wife and 3 children, Mrs E Lachtrer and daughter G W Rood and wife, W S Farr and wife, E Cartwright, J E Kelly, Mrs J W Prentice and child, Mrs P J Deneure, Mrs ... Hines Miss S Armstrong, H Ackerman, N A Howe N Bond, C Hirtzel, C Collins, Mrs Opperhauser Mrs McCarty, T B Morris, Lieut ... H McCartney, E W Hewitt and wife, M Manning

THE INDIAN STONE HEADS "—Our report of the lecture delivered on the 31st of January last, by Rev Mr Condon, has found its way into very wide circulation. The New York Times of a late date has a long editorial on the geology of Oregon, which is almost entirely made up of verbatim extracts from our report, expertly woven together by a compiling editor. The Times deems the information thus afforded not only an interesting but an important contribution to geological science. Another Eastern paper which we picked up a few days since, had an article in relation to the petrified horse," in which reference was also made to Mr Condon's lecture above alluded to and in which appeared extracts from our report.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Augustus Cæsar Schwatka, one of the House Democrat and formerly of the Salem Agriculturist, arrived from the sage brush, Monday evening. Gus looks rather stout though he weighs only two hundred and twenty four pounds and eight ounces, on Fairbanks' hay scales but he expects to tone up somewhat now that he has got back to Webfoot. He says that sage brush diet and climate has a general tendency to enlarge the adipose and Latin tissues, and he stroked his own stomach, etc., as furnishing strong example. Gus has been up there only about two or three years—it's fearful to think what a girl have become of him if he had stayed two or three years more.

EXPORTS TO HONOLULU —The barkentine Jane A Falkenberg cleared last evening for Honolulu, with the following manifest of exports Oats—[illegible] 2 231 bushels, $1,342 95, Salmon—172 bbls 18 bbls, 53 kits, $1,321, Hams—22 cases, 562 lbs, $1,262 74, Lard—16 cases, 1,000 lbs, 110 Bacon—4 cases, 1,412 lbs, $201 83, Flour—[illegible] bbls, $4,358 62, Farina—86 sks, [illegible] lbs $324 37, Pilot Bread—99 cases, 3,268 lbs $373 84, Pork—15 bbls., 3,000 lbs, $270, Beef—3 hf bbls, 800 lbs, $64, Shoulders—4 cases, 960 lbs $120, Bran—181 sks, 1,000 lbs, $90. POSTOFFICE AT KALAMA —Capt E G Ingalls of Kalama, was up here yesterday trying to make arrangements for getting the Kalama postoffice in operation. Mr E. Smith has received his commission as postmaster, and has appointed Capt Ingalls, deputy, who will attend to the current business of the office As soon as a mail key can be had—probably in two of three days—the office will be in operation.

VERY PROBABLE —It is said that enterprising citizens are trying to "swamp" Saurin's Island, under the provisions of our excellent swamp land act. Almost anything can be done under that act. We wait for the next announcement.

The hall, after cutting off a tier of dressing rooms, at the west end, will have a clear area of floor of 59 by 148 feet—by far the largest hall in the city. Beside its proper use as a skating rink, it will serve a splendid purpose, if desirable, as a ball room, or for large public meetings. The proprietors hope to have it finished by the 1st of April.

OUR CUSTOM HOUSE AND POSTOFFICE. — We have information from Senator Corbett of Feb. 13th, to the effect that the Appropriation Committee of the House of Representatives had agreed to a clause appropriating $100,000 for the Custom house and Postoffice at this city The total amount therefor to be applied will be large enough to enable the constructing superintendent to put the work along rapidly during the next summer Mr Corbett expressed the belief that he will be able during the next session of Congress to get enough to complete the building

Poisonous Medicines.
The theory that the virus of disease can be safely counteracted by doses of poison, is false and dangerous Within the last twenty five years, not less than a score of virulent poisons have been added to the repository of the medical profession They are given in small doses, otherwise they would destroy life immediately; but even in minute quantities, they produce, ultimately very disastrous effects It is unwise and unphilosophical to employ, as remedies, powerful and insidious drugs, which in subjugating one disease, sow the seeds of another still more unmanageable. None of these terrible medicaments operates with as much directness and certainty upon the causes of disease as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a tonic and corrective, without a single deleterious ingredient in its compound Arsenic and quinia are given for intermittents; bromide potassium for nervous disorders strychnine and prussic acid for general debility, mercury in various forms, for liver complaint, preparations of chloroform and opium for sleeplessness, and yet these deadly drugs do not compare, as specifics for the diseases above enumerated, with that wholesome vegetable invigorant and alterative, while they are all so pernicious that it is astonishing any physician should take the responsibility of prescribing them. Let invalids, for their own sakes try the Bitters before they resort to the poisons The relief they will experience from a course of the harmless specific, will render a recourse to the unsafe preparations referred to, quite unnecessary.

I will pay $500 reward for a case it will not cure, or I will forfeit my reputation as a man and physician. I will also prove to any one who will write me, that I am telling the truth, by testifying to the cures of hundreds of the most reputable citizens of this country. A pamphlet giving symptoms and other information sent free to any address This remedy is SOLD BY MOST DRUGGISTS IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD Retribution.

The law of compensation is universal. The man of acute enjoyments is equally liable by temper to acute griefs; and the path which carries an individual or nation up the hill to glory, is almost certain to carry the next generation down the other side of the hill to shame. The history of nations divided into cycles—and not very extended cycles either—presents them as alternating between extreme pride and ambition gratified and the depths of humiliation. It is the universal law of compensation asserting itself. After Alexander the Great comes Greece divided and on the down trail to the valley of humiliation. After the wise and moderate Augustus, the Imperial wild beasts Nero and Caligula. After the "Golden Age" of four-score years, the long reign of infamous and brutalized Emperors. After Cromwell, the contemptible Charles II. After Frederick, Jena and Auerstadt. After Napoleon I. the shame now inflicted on France. Look at these figures, and ask yourself, attentive reader, if meekness and moderation are not better pilots in this world than the pride and love of glory which success too often begets in the human soul: "Official returns received at the Berlin war office show that during the month of January, 1871, the French nation surrendered 800 cannon and 350,000 soldiers to the Germans, including 150,000 who laid down their arms at the Paris capitulation." Add to these figures 130,000 surrendered at Metz, 120,000 at Sedan, and not less than 100,000 taken captive in various other battles and fields, and we have a grand aggregate of 700,000 French soldiers made prisoners from the 5th of August, 1870, to the 28th of January 1871! making no mention of the 150,000 others who must have been killed or wounded in those one hundred and seventy-six days, one week less than half a year. The entire German loss during the last twenty-eight days of this campaign was but 10,000! In all their campaign their losses could not have aggregated over 100,000.

It is the retribution which fortune with unfailing logic assures those who are wise enough to profit by the lessons of adversity. Under the terrible blows received by Prussia in the Seven Years' War and forty-two years later at the heavy hand of Napoleon I. a foolish nation like Poland would have been snuffed out. But the Germans have wisely turned "the iron scourge and torturing hour" of adversity into a most valuable lesson, and from it have evolved a success which, while it expunges the memory of France's insolence to their race from 1670 to 1805, will teach them also to be moderate and humble in the day of their good fortune's culmination. In 1670 the French armies under Turenne, Vauban and Conde, without any cause or provocation, and moved solely by the pride insolence and superstition of Louis XIV., overran the States of Holland and Belgium and treated the Germans with even less consideration than the conquering Roman legions and Cæsar treated the Gauls and Helvetii. History informs us, such was the terror of the French name that in the war of 1670 one Frenchman was equal to twenty Germans, and the march of Turenne was almost unresisted. "If you will be kind enough to send me fifty horsemen," said a subaltern officer to the great Marshal, "I shall with them be able to take you two or three cities from the States General." The Germans were treated with the utmost cruelty and insolence; sometimes refused quarter, and when peace was asked for they were told it could only be granted on the utmost humiliating conditions, one of which demanded a total change of the religion of the nation and the universal adoption of that professed by the haughty King of France. Now, under Prussian leadership, have the united armies of Germany exacting retribution for the crimes committed against them and against the code of humanity two centuries ago. The debt which has slept so long, unnoticed by surface thinkers, has to be paid to the paid with full and lawful interest one hundred for one. It is the romance of History, in its marvelous realizations excelling all the inventions of fiction.

Great Ocean Cable Scheme.

A Washington dispatch to the New York Herald of February 19th, says:

Senator Howe's bill to encourage the laying of additional telegraph cables, and to secure ... to the United States, proposes to ... a commission consisting of John W. ... of California, Andrew E. Elmore of ... Wm. G. Fargo of New York, John ... Pennsylvania, Bradley Barlow of ... Robert Taylor of Pennsylvania, ... McD. Collins of California, Richard S. ... Massachusetts, Moses H. Grinnell of ... York, and John B. Corse of Illinois, to ... the two cable companies—one for the ... ocean, from the United States to China and Japan; and the other to Europe via the Bermudas, Azores and other Atlantic ... and to prepare by-laws for the control ... The Commissioners are also to open ... subscription books of the companies, ... that opportunity is afforded for all ... who desire to subscribe. The capital ... of the Atlantic Company is to be ... 0, and of the Pacific Company $12,000,000, the shares to be $100 each.

The bill proposes that the companies shall ... mortgages on their property to the United States Postmaster-General to the ... of $4,000,000 for the Atlantic Company and $6,000,000 for the Pacific, and the ... companies are to be allowed to issue thirty-year ... per cent. bonds for those several ... the coupons of which shall be en... by the Postmaster-General. If either company defaults, the Postmaster-General is to be allowed to take possession and operate the lines, first to provide the sinking fund, and then to secure re-payment of any interest which the United States may have paid. These companies are to be at all times at the service of the Government, at rates not exceeding $5 for ten words on the Atlantic lines, and $15 on the Pacific; these messages to have priority over all business. Classical Education.

The New York Herald of January 31st, reports a lecture on Physiology and Hygiene, in which occurs the following:

In showing how entirely useless in the ordinary struggle of life the classics were, the lecturer (a doctor) said the men who are wielding the great business of the country are uneducated men. We do not get our great men out of colleges. "No; college has taken the backbone out of them. It was not the college graduate in this country who guided the Ship of State through her darkest hour. No; we took a man off a flatboat, out West—a rail splitter. In the olden days of letters scholars were taught the classics because these were the languages of the time; there was no German, no English, no French—nothing but Greek and Latin. The Doctor said he did not know a distinguished surgeon in this country who was a classical scholar. An eminent Professor, a friend of his, had told him that when young men came to him who had studied the classics he found that they were unfit to investigate nature. Latin was very good to write doctors' prescriptions with, that no one could understand, but for nothing else. Shakspeare did not know Latin, except what he learned at a grammar school in one term, and most of the time he was was flirting with Ann Hathaway and poaching in his neighbors' preserves. Shakspeare used Latin only to put it in the mouths of his clowns. Dickens spoke no Latin. Demosthenes spoke Greek; Jean Jacques Rousseau nothing but French; Patrick Henry only English, and, some people said, not very classical English, either. There was no room in any man's head for two tongues, though there might be in a woman's. The world's best work in literature was done by men who knew nothing of the classics. The Doctor illustrated his arguments by anecdotes of people who had come under his own experience.

THE HEROIC ENGINEER.—David Simmons was the engineer of the Pacific express train. He was a true man. For twenty years he held a place on an engine. Years ago, while dashing past Yonkers, Simmons called the attention of his fireman to a train which was sweeping down upon them like the wind. A collision seemed inevitable. The frightened fireman shouted, "Good bye, Dave; I'm agoing to jump," and sprang from the locomotive. Simmons stood with his hand upon the throttle of his engine like a man of iron. In the face of startling peril he remembered his duty, and stood at his post. A collision was averted, and the heroic engineer saved the lives of a hundred men.

On Monday night David Simmons was driving his engine toward Albany at the rate of forty miles an hour. Near New Hamburg a red light was swung out as from an approaching train. The engineer saw it. It was the signal of danger. David Simmons whistled down the brakes in the vain hope of stopping the express in time. His fireman again took the alarm, and shouted to Simmons to leap for life. The noble Simmons calmly answered, "I won't; I'll stay with my engine." Again he stood like a man of iron at his post. The fireman sprang and saved his life. The engineer saw a train on the bridge. He realized that his only hope of safety was to dash through the obstruction. He whistled off the brakes, and crowded on all of his steam. This was the work of an instant. Simmons peered into the darkness, shading his eyes with his hand, and was dashed into the jaws of death.

David Simmons was a hero. His fate is sad; but his noble behavior is the only bright page in the dark history of the awful accident at New Hamburgh.—N. Y. Sun.
